Latest population figures present a curious picture of Milam and other Central Texas counties.

Population Research Center of the Texas Business Review says Milam led Central Texas counties in percentage of population loss since 1960, a dubious honor.

Research Center said Milam lost 1,866 since the '60 census, continuing a pattern of rural population loss begun in the 1920's.

Neighboring Falls and Robertson Counties also lost population; Falls showing a drop of 1,738 people, Robertson showing a loss of 5.8.

Bell County showed a whopping 7.1 per cent increase with 31,345 people gained; Coryell led Central Texas with a 9.2 per cent increase of an estimated 10,770 people. And McLennan County showed a 0.7 per cent increase of 3,988 people.

106-106-106

These figures are curious because only 35 miles from Cameron is one of the fastest growing areas of Texas. So why?

The impact of Fort Hood's development continues its long range effect; Temple- Belton - Waco-Austin's location on Interstate 35 is the second main effect. The strip city influence, a common phenomenon in some 20 areas of the nation, is occurring just to our west.

Milam County is one of the last Cen-Tex counties to see its small farmer so ill affected by the shift in national farm economics. Alcoa's arrival in the early '50's, and continuation of several small industrial payrolls in Cameron stemmed the tide in that decade; Milam lost about 1,350 people from '50 to '60 even though thousands of farmers and their families were departing. But many of the younger men found industrial jobs.

A certain unwillingness to recognize the real problem, which presents itself in these latest figures, has contributed little to a solution~~s. And there are solu~~tions.

There is great competition, but competition that can be met by an aggressive, organized, committed industrial foundation that will find sufficient financial support when it is needed. A rewriting of the Cameron Industrial Foundation is underway; a delay of some two years since its first organization and drafting likely has been costly.

If there is any additional delay, those who drag their feet will be hard put to justify it. We have only to look to our west 30 some miles to see what aggressive organization has done.

The strip city explosion all the way from Austin to Waco and northward to Dallas, in time, will spill its side boundaries.

106-106-106

Wishful thinking will not satisfy these developments, even in the knowledge that better highways are bringing streams of additional people through the Milam community each day.

The loss of rural population has been inevitable. Cameron and Milam's commitment can meet this trend with spirited development. More housing, while Cameron is rented and occupied to capacity, is needed. Many rural people are moving to town. And continued efforts to update all community services will assist measureably in payroll development of our good labor supply.

The essential quality remains, however, concerted, concentrated, creative, competitive, comprehensive action.

Oxford Oil Co. Drilling Tests On Minerva Field

The Oxford Oil Company is completing its first shallow wildcat as an oiler on the Tumlinson Estate tract in the Old Minerva field, and also spudded its second wildcat on Monday and drilled it to the oil sand late Tuesday afternoon.

Oxford's first wildcat, the B-3, was drilled last week. Depth was 580 feet, but it topped the first oil sand at 512 feet. A total of 14 feet of oil sand was found. A Schlumberger test was run on the wildcat late last week and it also was perforated. It was swabbed early this week. Tanks were being moved in on Wednesday and the wildcat was being put on pump.

Potential test has not yet been run on the B-3, so no estimate of its production is available.

The Shell Oil Company No. 1 Nell Ross, deep Smackover wildcat four miles southwest of Gause, was drilling at 12,920 feet on Monday. It was reported at 12,585 feet on Friday last week, with the drilling crew changing bits.

Earlier the week before the wildcat reportedly was cored from 11,915 to 12,040 feet by the drilling crew.

Head-On Collision Kills 2 On SH 36

INVESTIGATION UNDERWAY IN ROGERS WRECK

By Lois Sapp

Investigation was still underway Wednesday in the head-on car-pickup truck collision that fatally injured B. A. (Buck) Slavik, 52, Cameron electrician and farmer, and Temple City Attorney Joe Carroll Tuesday near Rogers.

Sgt. Hancock of the Bell County Highway Patrol station in Belton, said Wednesday that an inquest verdict had not yet been returned by Justice of the Peace Jap M. Stafford of Academy.

Highway Patrolman Hollie Tull of Temple is in charge of the investigation assisted by Patrolmen Grady Bagby of Temple and Charles Ingram of Marlin who is on special assignment in Belton.

The accident occurred at 4:40 p.m. and officials said Slavik died about 8 p.m. at Scott and White Memorial Hospital in Temple. Carroll was pinned in the automobile by the impact and was apparently killed instantly.

Officials said Carroll apparently lost control of his car on a curve on US 190 near the east city limits of Rogers. The car crossed to the southbound lane and struck the pickup truck at the left front and fender.

The truck overturned on its side and officers worked about 15 minutes getting Slavik out of the truck. He was taken to Scott & White Hospital by a Gommert Funeral Home ambulance.

Sgt. Hancock said this was the second major accident in the Temple area since Saturday and is the fourth fatal accident this year. Tuesday's accident brings the death toll for the year to seven.

Slavik, a native of Milam County, was a former employee of the Texas Power & Light Company and was working as an electrician on a construction job at McCloskey Hospital. He was returning to his home in Cameron at the time of the accident.

SLAVIK SERVICES

Funeral services for Slavik will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday at St. Cyril and Methodius Catholic Church in Marak. Rev. George Bonhard will officiate with burial in the Marak cemetery. Rosary was recited Wednesday night at the chapel of Green Funeral Home in Cameron.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. B. A. Slavik of Cameron; two sons, Raymond Slavik of Cameron and Billy Slavik of Cleburne; two daughters, Carolyn Slavik of Cameron and Mrs. Jo Ann Jenkins of Cleburne; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Slavik of Temple; five brothers, Louis Slavik, John Slavik and Lad Slavik, all of Cameron, Joe Slavik of San Antonio

Freddie Lee Bradley of Cameron was adjudged guilty of the offense of operating a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner and was sentenced to serve two years in the state penitentiary. Jr. Poultry Show Banquet Saturday

Milam County's annual Junior Poultry Show and Awards banquet is set for Saturday, May 8.

The Poultry Committee of the Cameron Chamber of Commerce, headed by Chairman Leo Fuchs, is sponsoring the show.

About 55 4-H Club and FFA poultry growers will exhibit their Chicks, bringing to a climax nine weeks of work for the young growers.

All contestants will have their entries at the Dusek Building on East 1st Street, formerly known as the ASC office, by 9 a.m.

Cecil Ryan, from the Poultry Science Department at A&M University, will judge the entries. Judging is expected to be completed by 1 p.m. Blue, red and white ribbons will be awarded.

Following the show, the grower will present his five show chicks to his sponsor and keep the remainder of the flock. All sponsors are asked to pick up their broilers by 4:30 p.m., according to Monroe Fuchs, show chairman.

Businessmen from over the county are sponsoring the young growers. In March they presented 50 baby chicks to the growers. From the 50 chicks, the grower will choose his five best broilers and enter them in the show.

Climaxing the day's program will be the Awards Banquet set for 7:30 p.m. at the Methodist Fellowship Hall.

Grand champion and Reserve champion trophies will be presented to the top winners. Cash prizes will be awarded to the top entries in the Pullet and Cockerel divisions. Certificates of merit will be presented for the best feed conversion and junior judging.

CofC officials said the number of prizes have been cut this year since the number of growers participating are less. In past years over 70 growers have entered the show. In doing so, competition will remain on the same basis.

Guest speaker for the awards banquet will be Dub King of Waco. Bill Arthur is chairman of the awards banquet.

Sponsors wishing additional tickets, other than the two they will receive for themselves and their grower, should contact the Chamber office as early as possible.

Serving on the poultry committee along with the chairmen are Gus Elley, Louis Elley, Charles Brady, Allen Dodson, J. D. Moore and Charles Henson.

Board Adds New School Positions

School trustees of the Cameron Independent School District made several changes in administrative duties and created a new school counselor position at their meeting Thursday night.

The board approved a motion submitted by C. R. Law to consolidate grades 1 through 8 in the Ben Milam and Ada Henderson buildings under the supervision and direction of one principal.

Herman Brown, presently serving as principal of Ada Henderson, was given the assignment and responsibilities to serve as principal of both schools.

The salary for this assignment will be that provided by the State Program plus $1,800.00 per annum. His work will include 11 months with the contract to become effective August 1.

The board also approved a motion to employ Harrison McLerran, Ada Henderson teacher, as a part-time principal to assist Brown. The motion, submitted by Law stated, "This arrangement has been specifically approved by the proper authorities in the Department of Education, State of Texas, Austin."

The salary for McLerran's additional duties will be that provided by the State Program for part-time principals and will become effective Sept. 1, 1965.

COUNSELOR

A motion to create and establish a school counselor position gained unanimous approval.

C. R. Law, board president, said in his motion, "Intensive research, inquiry and information concerning the value of a School Counselor to work with the youth in our schools and community warrants this Board of Education in establishing and creating the position of School Counselor. It is the judgment of the Board that perhaps the greatest opportunity of service to our students in today's world rests with the School Counselor."

The board also approved the employment of two additional secretaries. At the school superintendent's office, an executive secretary will be employed. This executive secretary will be under the supervision and direction of the Superintendent and shall handle the detailed clerical work now going over the desk of the superintendent.

The motion submitted by Mr. Law, said the vacancy in the position of Assistant Superintendent will greatly increase the volume of detail work and business for the superintendent.

The assignment for the executive secretary will be on a 12 mouth's basis with the salary for such position to be fixed by the School Board at the time of employment.

O. J. THOMAS

In an effort to relieve the principal of O.J. Thomas of a major portion of detailed clerical work, the board approved a motion to employ a secretary at O.J. Thomas school.

Albert Whiteside, principal, now "has the duty and responsibility for grades 1 through 12 together with athletics and every organization and program incident to maintaining an outstanding school in the community," Law's motion said.

The secretary's assignment will be on a 10 month's basis with the salary to be fixed by the Board at time of employment.

In other action, M. C. Duncum was named chairman designated to handle public relations for the board of education.

The Board also accepted the resignation from G. H. Gersbach, teacher of 6th grade math and science in Ada Henderson School for the past year. Gersbach has accepted a position in the Bartlett School system.

Walled Lake Door Factory Sets New Production Record

Walled Lake Door Factory reports its most successful year in the business' history setting a new production record, according to manager James Wilkinson.

Production increased to 660,000 doors manufactured during 1964. This figure was some 180,000 more doors than the nearest record of 480,000 doors produced.

Increase in the production at the plant site north of Cameron was credited to the quality of doors produced. Wilkinson said they were servicing the same territory but that their business demands had increased.

Without increasing the number of employees, they manufactured an additional 180,000 doors and were in turn able to cut down on operation costs.

Wilkinson said he and the company heads as well were very proud of the increase and of the work of the employees who made the new record possible.

Council Approves Three Projects

Approval of an $8,050.00 sewage project, purchase of playground equipment and work on the Fire Station was given by City Councilmen Tuesday night.

Bids for materials for the 4,000 feet, 6-inch sewer extension line are being called for and construction is expected to begin immediately, according to City Secretary Buddy Fuller.

The sewer line will service some 30 to 40 families in the south part of Cameron near Ledbetter Park. Residents from that section of the city who are not now serviced with a sewer line requested the new sewer. Work will be under the supervision of Water Dept. Supt. Alvin Hefft.

A request from Fire Department heads for adjustment of the fire station in an effort to relieve congestion, gained the council's approval.

Work began Wednesday on remodeling the rear of the fire station to make a drive-through. Fire trucks will then be able to leave the station in either direction. The council also approved the purchase of a new CO2 Fire extinguisher for one of the fire trucks.

New playground equipment to be purchased for installation at the Cameron City Park include a merry-go-round, jungle gym set, 4-unit see-saw and a small slide. The council expects to have more swings constructed at a later date.

In other action the council reappointed Housing Authority members August Kunz, John Henderson Sr. and Henry Siebman.

They also voted to give $5,000 to the Cameron Library. This fund is a part of the $10,000 allocated for the library's construction two years ago. This $5,000 will be the second part given in two years.

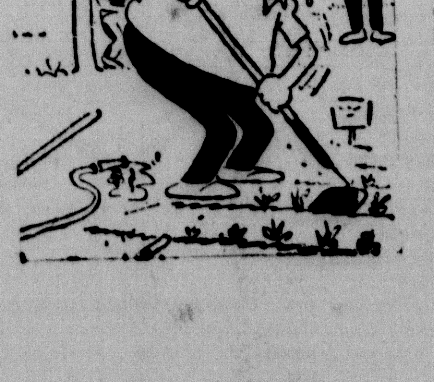
Deems, Pops Join Herald

"Deems," a dark-haired youngster who might be the kid next door, and "Pops," the man around the house, join The Cameron Herald family this week.

These cartoon characters help a third new cartoon series, "It's A Living," by Al Johns, brighten the pages of your Milam area newspaper and bring a new feature page to The Herald.



It is a part of The Herald's wider offering of columns and special features begun during the past few weeks.

SPECIAL PAGE

Creating this special feature page are also the talents in Jane Sherrod Singer's "Self Analysis Quiz" and Nola White's "Nola Knows." Both features will appear with the new cartoon features weekly.

A third new column in The Herald's sports page is "Murray-Go-Round" by Tom Murray, freelance sports writer of Houston, and former sports writer for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

"Deems" is drawn by Tom Oka, a former member of Walt Disney's staff. His cartoon creation is named after his own son.

And "Pops" is the creation of George Wolfe, whose style is familiar to readers of "This Week" and "Saturday Evening Post."

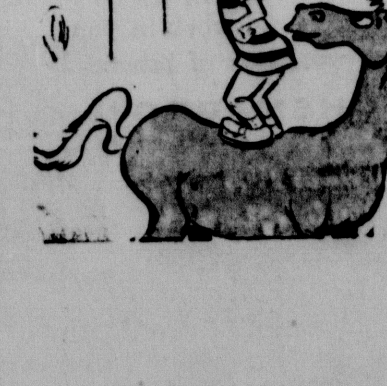
"It's A Living" is a weekly one-panel cartoon feature showing the pet peeves of various vocations, ones that will be familiar to all our readers. Johns' work also has appeared in "Saturday Evening Post," "Better Homes and Gardens," "Sports Afield" and numerous other national magazines.

OTHER CARTOON ART

Other cartoon features now appearing in your Herald include a weekly topical editorial cartoon and "Out of Orbit" and "You're in the Army Now," both humor.

The new columns expand the regular Herald feature columns which include "The Family Lawyer," a law column distributed by the Texas State Bar and American Bar Association; "Dateline Austin" and "Outdoors in Texas," by Vern Sanford of Texas Press Association, the traditional "Old Philosopher," "106," your County Agent's agriculture report and numerous personal reports from 10 Milam area communities.

It is believed The Herald is one of the few weeklies in the Southwest running weekly cartoon series on a feature page.



Mrs. McAnulty Saves Child's Life Here

Mrs. F.B. McAnulty of Cameron is credited by St. Edward Hospital officials for saving a child's life but not in the hospital where she works.

Sunday the McAnulty family was driving past a group of people on US 77, near KMIL, where two persons were making "frantic efforts to revive a child," one hospital official reports.

Stopping to learn the child was choking on a potato chip, Mrs. McAnulty immediately took the child, reached into his throat and dislodged it, inducing vomiting.

The child's life was saved.

East Texas Chamber Announces Free New Vacation Guide Book

LONGVIEW

The second annual East Texas Vacation Guide to be distributed nationally was released today by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce tourist development department.

The slick new guide is fresh in format and richly illustrated. Chas. F. Hawn of Athens, chairman of the regional chamber's tourist committee, says it is the answer to a study made of the requests for information which were voiced by prospective visitors at the five national travel shows at which the East Texas Chamber exhibited earlier this year.

Particular emphasis is given to historical attractions of the 71-county area, especially of the Texas Revolution era. There is a section on historic El Camino Real.

Many East Texas cities have advertised their flower and foliage tours in the new guide, and there is a feature in color on the flora of the region and its beauty during the changing seasons.

Included in the guide is a directory of accommodations for visitors in cities and at lakes. A calendar of fun events is provided; and, to help pinpoint cities and attractions, that part of the Official Texas Highway Map which covers the 71-county area has been included.

For a free copy of the guide, or of the new East Texas Fun Map released in March, write East Texas Chamber of Commerce, Dept. T, Longview, Texas.

Newsmen Learn How Nuclear Energy Helps Solve Ag Production At A&M

COLLEGE STATION

A group of news media representatives visiting Texas A&M University last week saw and heard how nuclear energy is being used to explore a wide variety of agricultural production problems.

Thep learned, for example, how nuclear science is digging up information on crop and livestock losses from bugs, disease and weeds which are costing the United States about $22,500 per minute of $12 billion a year.

Dr. Ruble Langston of the Plant Sciences Department told the newsmen that nuclear energy is often used as a tracer to mark movements of chemicals, insects, nutrients, hormones and other items. It is something like a farmer belling his lead cow to keep track of herd movements.

He cited the screwworm eradication program in Texas as an outstanding example of the atom at work for agriculture. Five years ago, screwworm infestations were common. Today, they are relatively rare.

SAFE AND EASY

Dr. Wyman Dorough, entomologist at Texas A&M, said one of the big obstacles in the never-ending fight against bugs is to develop pesticides that are both effective and reasonably safe to handle. Answers are sought through metabolism studies using radioisotopes as tracers.

"Many new materials are found to be inadequate and further costly investigation is eliminated," Dorough pointed out. "Those materials metabolized too slowly, or in some cases too rapidly, are discarded and the more promising chemicals are studied further."

Another speaker, Dr. Page W. Morgan of the Plant Sciences Department, described a number of ways radioactivity is used to track hormone movements in plants.

He said hormones are 'chemical messengers that scurry about the plant telling buds, leaves, branches and roots to grow or not to grow, to mature or to die." Especially significant research is underway on better ways to control brush, such as mesquite.

"Using radioactive 2,4,5-T, one promising lead has already turned up," Morgan said. "Addition of ammonium thiocyanate to the herbicide gets more of it to the mesquite root, resulting in better kill. Based on these isotope - assisted findings, a combination of ingredients mesquite killer should soon be on the market."

Soil moisture probes, a new and more accurate way of measuring soil water through atomic enegry, were explained by Dr. J. R. Runkles of the Soil and Crop Sciences Department. Conventional methods require expensive equipment and many man hours of labor.

ESTS SOIL TEMP

The new system involves measuring the soil moisture content by determining density of a "cloud of slow neutrons after a source of fast neutrons is placed in the soil." If soil moisture is low, the density of the slow neutron cloud will be less than if moisture content is high.

Dr. George M. Krise, biologist, said an ordinary Spanish goat can often absorb sizable doses of radiation and still perform physical tasks, but this doesn't mean man can do the same.

Discussing radiation effects on goats and their relationship to man, he said goats have been found to be unusually resistant to radiation. Much more research must be done with other animals before results can be "extrapolated" or applied to humans.

Various animals have been tried in radiation experiments, and the Spanish goat is a favorite because it and man are similar in some ways.

"Man lives under a variety of changing environmental conditions and might be considered a wild-type," Krise explained. "By and large, the Spanish goat is a wild-type animal since it is seldom cared for under normal cultural conditions."

Dr. Carl M. Lyman, head of the Biochemistry and Nutrition Department, discussed experiments on a yellow pigment known as gossypol in cotton seed. Gossypol in cottonseed meal, if fed improperly, can be poisonous to some types of livestock.

Radioactive carbon is providing some of the answers. The gossypol is separated from the seed after the parent plant has been treated with organic substances labeled with the carbon. If the separated gossypol is radioactive, then the substance given to the plant had to be used to make gossypol.

Dr. W. C. Ellis of the Animal Science Department said radioactive flow markers are proving valuable in studying nutritive value of forages.

He said the flow rate of forage particles through an animal's digestive tract is being determined by "marking" the particles with a radioactive isotype of cerium, a metallic element.

Dr. J. H. Quisenberrp, head of A&M's Poultry Science Department, discussed studies on effects of radiation on poultry and eggs.

"Chickens and turkeys have a greater natural resistance to irradiation than man and many other animals. Therefore, they could become a most important source of food in case of nuclear attack," he said.

Do you know the difference?

Dylox does!

Dylox is the selective insecticide. It selects its victims, the lygus bugs and fleahoppers that raise havoc when cotton begins to fruit and square. Unlike non-selective insecticides, Dylox does not appreciably reduce beneficial insect populations. Predators and parasites such as lady beetles, lacewings, egg parasites and big-eyed bugs continue to carry on their beneficial work in your fields. Therefore, cotton grows and fruits with the additional protection of beneficial insects, resulting in less frequent sprayings.

Can you identify the insect silhouettes? Dylox knows the difference. See your dealer for a supply.

SHELTER PROTECTION

New house construction provides the planning flexibility for including a disaster shelter or safety zone. Because of this flexibility, the shelter space can be usable space, construction costs can be kept low, and the overall space relationships within the house will be better than if a shelter area is added later, say Extension agricultural engineers at Texas A&M University.

and Frank Slavik of Houston; four sisters, Mrs. Marie Moore and Mrs. Emilie Blount of Temple, Mrs. Ann Bledsoe of Ruston, La., and Mrs. Agnes Svehla of Chicago.

Carroll, president of the Bell, Lampasas and Mills Bar Association, was appointed city attorney in 1960. He had served in that position until his death. A native of Kingsville, he had lived in Temple most of his life.

Hewett Funeral Home officials in Temple said Wednesday that services for Carroll are still pending.

He is survived by his wife; three children, Joe, Jimmy and Marjo Carroll, all of Temple; and a brother, Jessie Carroll of Dallas.

Ranked as one of the nation's top college bowlers after competing in the 1965 National Intercollegiate Bowling Championship Chas. Hollas gets tips on championship bowling from two time All-Star Dick Weber during the college finals at Saint Paul, Minnesota, on April 26th. The local college star ranked 43 out of 13,847 campus keglers who competed for the individual intercollegiate bowling crown.

35th Annual Invitational Golf Tournament May 16 th.

Over 100 golfers are expected to participate in the 35th Annual Cameron Invitational Golf Tournament May 16 at the Cameron Country Club golf course.

Termed the oldest invitational tourney in this area, a record number of 151 participated in the one-day competition last year. An equally large crowd is anticipated this year.

Tournament play will begin at 7 a.m. Sunday and will be a Blind Bogey tourney.

"The greens are in fine shape," said tournament chairman Dr. C. G. Swift. "The club house is also in fine shape, the swimming pool is open and we're having considerable activity every day at the country club. We are looking forward to one of our best tournaments," Dr. Swift continued.

The number of flights to be played in the 18-hole match will be determined by the number of entries. Prizes will be given in all flights.

Entry fee will be $5.00 which includes liquid refreshments on the golf course and a barbecue dinner. Non-golfers will be required to pay a fee of $1.50 for the barbeque dinner.

About 20 Texas towns are expected to be represented in tournament play. Last year entries came from all over the state with Waco golfers taking the championship. Ed Sherry and John Jacobs shared medalist honors by firing 72's in the 18 hole tournament.

Some fine golf has been played on the Cameron course.

In 1963 a hole-in-one was shot for the first time in the tournament. Bud Turner shot the hole-in-one on the 180 yard number nine hole on his first round. In 1962 Charles Luster of Hearne took the championship with a total of 71.

According to The Herald records, one of the best scores was shot in 1961 when two men tied for the championship with 69. Johnny Johnson of Texas A&M and George Smith of Hearne shared the honors.

Serving on the tournament committee this year with Dr. Swift are Lee Marak, Judge William Wallace, Ed Manning and M. C.

Hollas Ranks 3 In National College Bowling

ST. PAUL, MINN.

Twenty-two year old Charles Hollas today ranks 43 out of 13,847 college bowlers who competed for the 1965 champion's crown in intercollegiate bowling.

Hollas is a senior at the University of Texas, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hollas, 1562 West Main St., Cameron.

His high ranking finish in competition to determine the king of college bowling was based on singles, doubles and team events at the finals of the National Intercollegiate Bowling Championships in St. Paul. Nationally he stands 40 in singles, 12 in doubles competition, and is a member of the team which finished 12th. High scores in the finals were a 225 game and 575 series.

In addition to the individual title, Hollas was aiming to take possession of the coveted Morehead Patterson Trophy, named for the late chairman of American Machine & Foundry Company, which co-sponsors the national finals together with the Association of College Unions and American Bowling Congress. The award is presented annually to the college represented by the all events champion, with the winner receiving a replica for personal possession.

Each finalist overcame big odds of 184 to 1 in landing a spot in the national championships. Almost 14,000 students competed for 15 regional tournaments to determine the cream of intercollegiate bowling and fill the 75 finalist berths at the St. Paul championships.

May 15 Is Deadline For Notaries Filing

Secretary of State Crawford C. Martin announced that all qualified Notaries Public desiring reappointment for the new term ending June 1, 1967, must re-qualify by the payment of the required fee and the filing of a new oath and bond with the County Clerk of his residence between May 1, 1965, and May 15, 1965, inclusive.

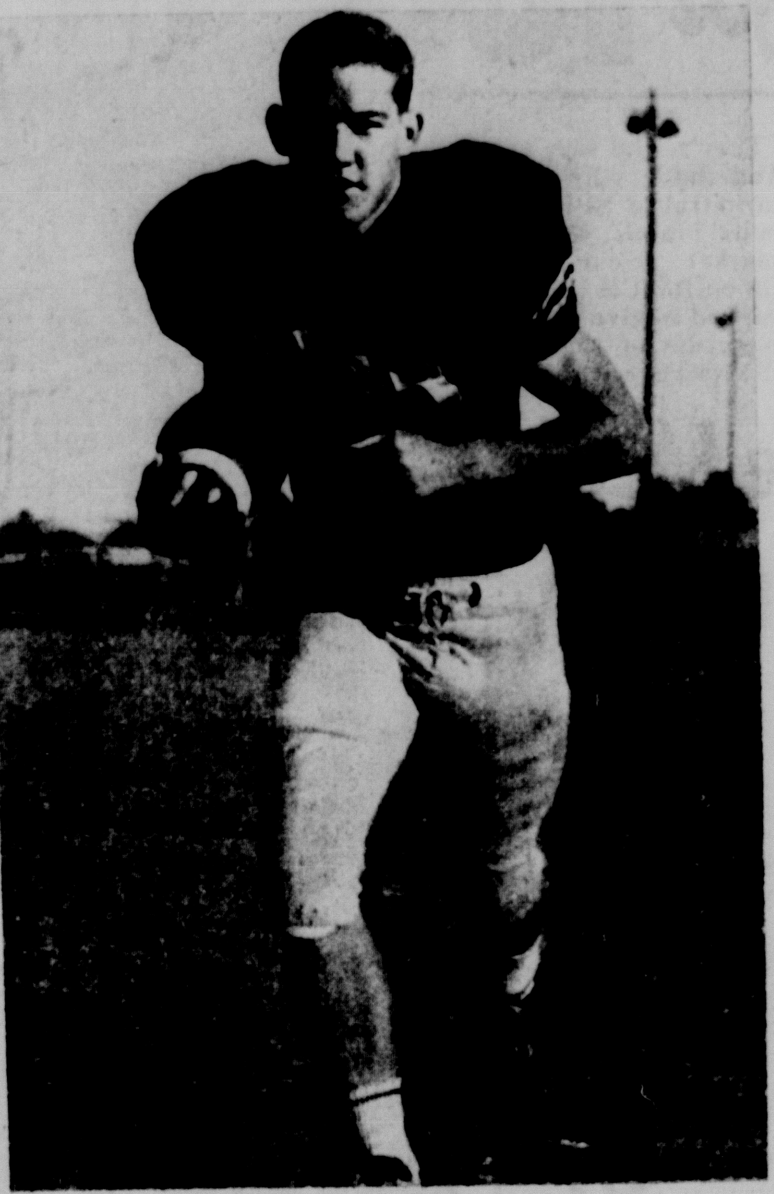
Martin emphasized that Notaries Public should not send requests for re-appointment or for commissions directly to the Secretary of State. The law requires that the County Clerks approve notary bonds.

Any person not now a Notary Public who desires appointment should apply to his County Clerk before May 20, 1965. Application during this period will assure that the appointment will be made in sufficient time for the applicant to qualify at the beginning of the new term.

The Secretary of State further pointed out that each person applying for a commission as a Notary Public must be at least 21 years of age and a resident of the county for which he is appointed. The exact name and permanent address of the applicant must be furnished the County Clerk.

Perrin Selected To Play In Texas All-Star Game

Yoe High halfback Mike Perrin has been selected to play in the Texas High School Coaches All-Star game.



Mike Perrin Ready For All-Star Game

Coach George Kirk received notification of Perrin's selection recently from the coaching association.

The All-star game will be played Thursday, August 5, at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas.

The Cameron youth is the first boy in this city's history to be selected to play in the All-star game, Kirk noted.

He will be among 30 boys from South Texas to meet with Pasadena Head Coach Bob Barfield for workouts on July 31.

Another 30 gridsters have been selected to play on the North Texas team in the game.

Selections to both teams were made by a committee composed of Texas High School Coaches Association members. Top football players in the state were named from all classes.

Perrin will play fullback and linebacker in the All-star game, Kirk said.

"The boys will bust heads for four days before the starting line-up is selected," the Cameron coach said.

Perrin, a senior at Yoe High School, has received many honors for his work at the halfback position on the Yoeman team.

He was All District in 1963-64; All Central Texas and Super Central Texas selection in 1964; honorable mention on the All-state team and named High School All American in 1964. He was recipient of the Cameron Booster Club's Most Valuable player award in 1963 and 1964. This gave him the distinction of being the first boy to receive the award two years.

Perrin, the 18-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Perrin, has signed to play college football at the University of Texas this coming year.

Coach Kirk said the gridster has a record of 1,000 yards rushing in 11 ball games with 22 passes for 332 yards. He averaged 15 tackles a game.

The Cameron youth has also excelled in academic work during his high school years. This year he is president of the National Honor Society and president of the student body.

County Has 3,134 Receiving Social Security Benefits

Monthly social security benefits in Cameron and Milam County amounted to $161,762 on Jan 1, 1965, Jack Calvert, district manager of the Temple social security office announced today. These monthly benefits are received by 3,134 persons, representing 14.1 per cent of the population of the entire county.

"This money stimulates the city and county business since most of it is spent for food, clothing and shelter locally, Calvert said. "There is no doubt that these monthly social security benefits help to stabilize the income and spending power of many of our residents.

In the seven counties of Bell, Coryell, Hamilton, Lampasas, Milam, Mills and San Saba served by the Temple district office, 18,190 persons are receiving $971,800 each month. This comes to a yearly total of $11,661,600.

Monthly social security benefits first became payable in January 1940 and have continued without interruption with a steady growth in the number of people getting benefits. There are many people in this area who could now be getting monthly benefits if they would just contact the Temple social security office and file a claim.

Comparative Shopping Stretches Food Budgets, Specialist Notes

Money-minded shoppers can stretch food budgets by comparative shopping. Although it may be time-consuming, the practice can result in savings for other essential items for the family.

This reminder comes from Mrs. Gwen Clyatt, Texas A&M University Extension consumer marketing specialist.

She suggests that food shoppers check food advertising at home, and analyze possible savings which can be realized by using "specials,' coupons or other sales practices.

Then, in the store, read labels and other information to learn price and net weight of food products. Next, estimate the cost of "like foods, per unit of weight or volume, such as cost per ounce, pound, pint, quart or serving. This gives the true - or real - cost of the food compared to other alternative choices, Mrs. Clyatt says

For most families, food is the largest item of expenditure. A five to ten percent savings in food shopping over a 12-month period would amount to enough to satisfy other essential needs for the family.

Food shoppers this week will note that there are good supplies of high quality eggs available. And prices are still reasonable. Chicken hens and fryers are about the same price as last weekend.

Beef prices are edging upward slightly. This may be a good time to shop for specials and buy extra cuts for the freezer. Theres a wide variety of beef cuts from which to choose.

Good values - both cost-wise and quality-wise - are to be found at produce counters. Grapefruit and oranges are still good selections, and strawberries are on many markets at reasonable prices. Pineapples, pears, bananas, avocados, and grapes are other fruits to consider.

Vegetable choices range from carrots to head lettuce, eggplant, mustard greens, cabbage, cauliflower and cucumbers.

Dairy foods are of excellent quality and price.

—MURRAY GO ROUND—

By Tom Murray

"Well, now I don't know whether to write about the Astrodome, the scoreboard, or the team itself," complained a slightly confused Houston writer before Lum Harris took his Little Astros out of Texas a second time.

Well, you understand his predicament, don't you?

The Astrodome may be the most priceless structure ever to rise on Texas soil, and that scoreboard is the most hilarious thing to hit major league baseball since the New York Mets picked up Clown Prince Casey Stengel on their way into existence.

Those are logical things to carve on in giving readers poop on major league baseball, Houston style 1965. So why does Lum have to louse it up with a team that actually can stand nose-to-nose with the best in the National League? The American League being what it is, this means all of baseball.

"Lum is doing a great job," says Al Spangler, Houston's old-pro left-fielder. "This ball club is going to finish a lot higher than most people think. We've picked up good new fielding in Centerfielder Jim Wynn and Joe Morgan at second, but other than that we're a pretty experienced outfit. We haven't even begun to hit yet," he chuckled.

Spangler, a nine-year major league veteran, knows better than anyone that an Astro bat explosion would embarrass most minor league teams. But, as he points out, there is a lot more to winning than simply hitting.

Folks have not lived until they have walked into the Astrodome for a look-around. And, Bob Hope might not measure up to the hilarity of that scoreboard. Therefore, if Lum keeps his players hopped up, there just are not going to be many resting cushions left in Hofheinz House the live-long summer.

SQUAWKS INEVITABLE:

Most humorous of scoreboard antics, perhaps, is the appearance of that strange little rider on a short-legged pony, bugle blowing. At end of buglers message, a giart CHARGE comes on the screen, pleading for happy Astro fans to join the fun. Naturally it comes when opposing pitchers are either in trouble with base-runners or a menacing Houston batter 90 feet away . . . The crowd response has been so enthusiastic, it is natural visiting teams - and their writers - would complain...Let 'em squawk. It's not the scoreboard. They're still burning because Roy Hofheinz outsmarted them with the entire $31 million joint... So Astro fans get into the act and have a little fun? Have the New York writers ever defended visiting teams at Met games? There are no more team-distracting fans in captivity than that zoo... Wait until the Los Angeles Dodgers and their critical writers come storming into the world's shiniest sports spa. . .

There will not be a cold cushion in the house. Strong-armed John Bateman will be aiming at second with the fabulous Maury Wills, and the Davis boys, Willie and Tommy, in his sights. But, then John Roseboro, Dodger catcher, has to shoot down flying Astros Joe Morgan, Jim Wynn, Spangler and the likes.

George Myers, the Astrodome groundsking, admits to being out of normal habitat in trying to nurture grass under a dome. "Frankly, we don't know exactly what's going to happen," he was telling a grass nutrient salesman. "There are a few things we do know," he cautioned, "and one is that we must be very careful with water, or first thing we know there is a man-made mudhole.". . . Adras Laborde, publisher of Alexandria Town Talk, wants the world to know his brand of Louisianans are major league fans. "Yes, Sir!" he says, with feeling, "This is Astro Country." Laborde's daily sports columnist, Bill Calder, makes Houston games in the Dome "He's given 'em a whale of a lot of publicity," Laborde informs. His tone leaves an impression there will be much more. . . Frank Luecke, publisher of Central Texas' Cameron Herald, says "Keep that stuff coming on the Astros, our people up here have gone crazy over that Astrodome" . . . Spangler, on the Dome: "It is the greatest place ever built for a fan to enjoy a game - baseball, football or any of the rest."

AND, SOME MORE:

Just as New York Snob-boat Columnist Red Smith called the Dodgers' Wes Parket a nobody, the soph slugger began taking the hide off the old baseball. Red knocked the Astros just before they went on a seven-game win streak and the Astrodome amidst the greatest acclaim ever afforded a non-living plant. . . Did you know that Ed Kranpool, the Mets' talented young slugger, attended the same New York high school as Hank Greenburg, the immortal Detroit slugger?

They're beinning to say Astro Lefty Larry Dierker a Los Angeles teen-ager, may be the best pitching prospect to hit the big leagues since Don Drysdale or Sandy Koufax. . . Dennis Ribant, the slender young Met right-hander, off whom gimp-legged Eddie Kasko bombed that game-winning double, was a star righthander for Austin of the Texas League at the tailend of 1961. Two of his favorite strikeout victims? The Yankees' Joe Pepitone and Phil Linz, both with Amarillo at the time. . . First time we saw Roy McMillan, the former Cincinnati great now cavorting for the Mets, he was a slugging young infielder on the 1947 Tyler Rosebuds of the Class C East Texas League. . . New York writer, Jesse Abramson, called Rice's relay-runners, "slightly butterfingered," after the Penn Relays. Mr. Abramson pulled a switch, however, by admitting the East's lousy weather had something to do with the Owls' droplets. . . The Penn meet is considering putting in an artificial track of Tartan brand. This is the stuff they're figuring for grass at Houston's big bubble. . . One of these nights absolutely nobody may show up to watch the Braves in pouting Milwaukee. . . When Casey pulled Houstonian Al Jackson out of a game, a member of the Met flinger's family shouted: "Casey, I love you, but you and I gonna have to go out behind the house for a talk about this.'

Think that scoreboard is not popular? Consider the plight of Barry Russak, Houston Manpower, Inc. president. "I was going to the game Saturday night but didn't.

Welcome Reads Hale's Book

Hale Book About Just Plain Folks

Turn South at the Second Bridge by Leon Hale. Published by Doubleday & Company, Inc., New York. $4.50.

Welcome Woods of Milano is destined to be remembered with affection by millions of readers for his ability to tell a side splitting yarn on himself. Woods' story of a hair-raising ride in a spirit driven Model A is one of the hilarious moments in a warm, humorous book, "Turn South at the Second Bridge," just published by Doubleday & Company, Inc.

Leon Hale, a columnist for The Houston Post, has artfully recorded a collection of tales, tall and true, interwoven with homespun philosophy from people in our own state, including Milano's Woods, Cuz, and J. L. Hayman. As the book cover observes, he has captured the flavor of a quickly disappearing source of American folklore in his stories about "the people who live way off the beaten track."

Of our County jail in Cameron, Hale says, "I have admired that old jail for years because it is such a character. Dark and red and rusty and esperienced."

He also tells about J. L. Hayman of Milano, "a big fellow past middle age who moves slow but steady and has a way of talking in a low pitched monotone that somehow makes you lean forward and listen."

Hale has captured the fun, color and warmth of the "just plain old folk" who live around us. But Chambers of Commerce and Industrial Foundations will have to sit back, slightly red faced, as we enjoy this new book which points out all the fun we are missing by taking ourselves so seriously. The familiar sentence, "times have changed," seems a sad statement after reading "Turn South at the Second Bridge." Fortunately Hale has provided us with a journal of people and their ideas, who "help preserve some of the fun of being a Texan."

March Record Set In Output Of Aluminum, Association Says

Domestic production of primary alumunim set records in March and the first quarter, according to S. L. Goldsmith Jr., executive vice president of The Aluminum Association.

Production in March was at a record level of 230,026 short tons, Goldsmith said. This was 7.4 per cent above the 214,175 tons produced a year earlier, and 13.2 per cent highter than the 203,159 tons produced in February, 1965.

The March figure brought the first quarter total to an all-time record of 655,934 tons, a gain of 4.7 per cent over the comparable 1964 quarter and 0.1 per cent above 1964s fourth quarter high of 655,248 tons.

A new per diem production record of 7,420 tons was also set during the 31-day month, Goldsmith stated. The March figure was 165 tons higher than the 7,255 ton daily total achieved in February, a 28-dap month.

The eight producing companies in the United States are Aluminum Company of America, Anaconda Aluminum Company, Consolidated Aluminum Corp., Harvey Aluminum (Incorporated), Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp., Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., Revere Copper and Brass, Inc., and Reynolds Metals Company. Olin and Revere produce primary aluminum through a jointly-owned subsidiary, Ormet Corporation.

Cameron, Japanese Boy Named Exchange Students

By Lois Sapp

George Bowman II of Cameron and John Takahiko Kubo, Nishinomiya City, Japan, are looking forward to a year full of new adventures and experiences. Bowman goes to the Netherlands and Kubo comes to Cameron.

Bowman To Netherlands

Kubo Comes To City

The Cameron youth will spend a year with Mr.and Mrs. Jan Wechelaer in Vorden, Netherlands. In turn, the Japanese boy will live with Dr. and Mrs. George Bowman.

George, one of six children, will be the second child in the Bowman family to live abroad under the International Christian Youth Exchange program.

ICYE is an international cultural exchange for teenagers, so they can get to know other families and churches throughout the world and in turn, interpret to them the American life and culture, church and society.

LONG-TIME INTEREST

The Bowmans interest in this program started several years ago. In 1961 their daughter Ann, now Mrs. Robert Mann, went to Germany to switch places with Dagmar von Schoeler.

"My interest was due partly to the valuable experiences my sister related, George said. "She enjoyed it so much and I know I will too. Also, I think its a wonderful opportunity and one I wouldn't want to miss," he continued.

Takahiko Kubo writes that he is just as pleased "to be in your family for a year in the USA

He is one of 250 young people from countries in Europe, Africa, Asia and Latin America who will be coming to the United States this summer to spend a year here.

The 17-year old youth will arrive in the United States on July 17 and undergo orientation programs before coming to Cameron July 21.

NEW EXPERIENCES

George will leave Cameron July 1 and will begin an orientation program at Beaver College in Glenside, Pa., on July 3. On July 5 he will fly to Amsterdam to undergo a second Orientation Program and then go on to his host family. He is one of 115 American students who will live in countries overseas during the next school year.

Bowman anticipates life in the Netherlands to be quite similar to his home in Cameron. "Everything is traditionally Dutch, but I am very lucky, Holland is one of the few countries where everyone knows English," he commented.

Mr. Wechgelaer is a vet surgeon. He and his wife have two children, a 17 year old daughter Willemientje and a 15 year old son Caspar. Their daughter will come to the United States to study under the ICYE program.

"Mr. Wechgelaer has told us that church activities are not often held but that the Bible is the starting-point in their life." the Cameron boy said. The family is a member of the Dutch Reformed Church.

Takahiko's arrived in Cameron is also anxiously awaited by the Bowmans and their children.

"Were just so pleased about having the experience of oriental background," Dr. Bowman said. "As it was when Daggie was here, the whole school and community benefited from her."

TAKAHIKOS INTERESTS

Takahiko will attend Yoe High School with the grade classification not yet determined.

He is presently a student at Kwansei Gakuin Senior High School, which is a missionary. One of two children, his father is a merchant in Osaka.

In a letter to the Bowman family he said his hobby was listening to records, classic and Latin. "I am extremely interested in human relations founded on Christianity and leadership." He is the only Christian in his family.

"We hope to give him every opportunity to learn and appreciate our country and I know he will fit right into the family." Dr. Bowman said.

Takahiko will be greeted by Betsy 16, Jim 14, Mary 12 and Laura 9, who will be his new brother and sisters for his years stay in Cameron.

The Wechgelaers relate a simple life, with great interest in books and the outdoor life. On holidays and occasional weekends they go to their farm in the north of the province Groningen. "They already have a Boy Scout camp-out planned for this summer and I am included in their plans," George noted.

ATTEND SCHOOL

A senior at Yoe High School. George will attend the 13th year of instruction in the Netherland school. The school, with 720 pupils carries on activities of music and sport along with intensive study.

More Emphasis Due On Leisure, Sociologist Says

COLLEGE STATION

"Education in the future will need to place more emphasis upon wise use of leisure time," said Reagan Brown, Extension sociologist, Texas A&M University.

He said it is estimated that the average person 35 years from now will have twice as much leisure time as the person of the present. "Either we start planning today for wise use of this time or we pay the consequences, he added.

Brown said that increasing concern for training of our citizens in wise use of leisure time is not just a desire to make people's lives more pleasant for them. Monotony in work and in off hours is a social danger no less than disease, disorder, and illiteracy.

"Our failure to embrace this belief is raising the crime rate, increasing population in mental hospitals, multiplying physical and moral weaklings rejected by the armed forces, and raising the percentage of youths who want security at the very onset of their careers and who are afraid of trial and adventure, he stated.

Participation is most important and involves more than just being a spectator to a sport that offers only passive sideline involvement. In addition to what is commonly called physical recreation, participation may be in the form of civic affairs or social services which offer meaningful leisure time activity and satisfying personal experience,' Brown explained.

He said that this does not mean that ones work or profession will be neglected but that life will be looked upon as an entify and preparation for it will be treated as such.

Factors Favoring Industrial Growth

(Ed. Note: Information revealed at the Texas Power & Light Area Development Seminar in Dallas April 20, will be printed in a two-part series in The Herald. The information is offered to give all citizens of the area an insight into relating local factors which affect Industrial Development.)

John H. Rutedge, director of Real Estate Management of Champion Papers Inc. noted the various local factors which affect industrial development in cities and towns such as Cameron at the TP&L Area Development Seminar in Dallas last Thursday.

Five Cameron Chamber of Commerce members attended the one-day session. Those attending were Mayor Bassel Wilson, CC President Forrest Sapp, Chamber Director Bob Wells, Industrial Chairman Narvie Caperton and TP&L Manager Henry Siebman.

Rutledge noted that the greatest of all commodities is real estate "whether we own it, use it or serve it, effective use thereof detemrines our collegtive economic well-being."

He said industrial development was influenced by local factors including such fields as: Labor, Taxes, Government, Transportation, Available Existing Buildings, Zoning and Building Codes, Fire and Police Protection, Site Considerations, Aid Programs and Human Resources.

"To establish perspective, let us take a brief look at the changes we have been told are probable. We can expect that United States population will increase by 33 1-3 per cent in the years from 1960 to 1975. We are, in fact, adding a state of Kentucky every 30 days. The next 35 years will see an increase in Asia alone equal to the total population of the world in 1958. This tidal wave of humanity must have the electric power, water, homes, goods and services necessary to sustain the economic vitality and physical well-being demanded by a sophisticated society.

"Today, virtually every major corporation in the U.S. is deeply engrossed in detailed planning, both short and long range, recognizing that its economic jugular vein is quickly pinched by the slightest inability to meet new demands of changing, growing markets. Industry's mandate for continued existence is action and this spells opportunity for every community of people, however small or large, to share in an industrial revolution of unprecedented proportion.

"We all play many different, yet strategic, roles in the vital drama of community growth. I speak to you from private industry's point of view - sometimes characterized as the hare sought by the hounds. My company has mills, plants, warehouses and offices in 34 of the United States, plus one foreign country. We are persently doing business in all 50 states and 40 of the free nations of the world. Nevertheless, each site selection exercise is a unique, interesting and humbling experience It is a gambling game in which the stakes are so great for industry and community alike that we absolutely must not be in error. The criteria for no two facilities are ever identical and the incubation period for specification growth often runs into volumes of documentation and years of preparation.

"Champion Papers, fortunately, can and does draw on the expertise and talents of many specialists, each of whom is expected to contribute to the construction or destruction of each idea or concept. Indeed, there can be no justification by industry nor community for a new facility unless it improves profit. Once that resolution becomes affirmative, however, and an appropriation of funds is approved, the real fun begins.

"It is, of course, axiomatic that the ideal location for a manufacturing plant would be at the center of two concentric circles representing raw material source and the market for finished goods, but it doesn't often work out this way. For example, if you are distributing in each of two nearby cities of approximately equal size, you will usually locate in one of them and ship to the other rather than locate midway between them....but not always. Freight rate comparison for plane, train, truck and barge carriers when affected by that valuable commodity called time, can produce very interesting results. This must be compiled in considerable detail and exactitude for low and high density product movement from every community wishing to tell its story.

LOCAL FACTORS

Specifically, what are the local factors that affect site selection, vis-a-vis, industrial development? Without attempting to place them in any order of priority, the list will include but not be limited to

LABOR

Availability of skills, rates of pay, unemployment compensation, flexibility to change, unemployment rate, types of unions and responsibility of leadership, history of labor strife, accident rate, state labor laws, statutes restricting employees in dealing with irresponsible union membership, right-to-work laws. For most industries, the greatest single investment is in payroll.

TAXES

What kinds are there and what are the rates for each? Are there moratoriums and if so for how long? Is there "free port" legislation: Is there healthy balance between industrial and residential tax bases? Is the tax rate predictable or could a sudden school building program, for example, cause rates to skyrocket? What is the County Assessor's attitude and reputation for cooperation?

GOVERNMENT

Are local leaders interested in new industry? Do they demonstrate intelligent, enlightened attitudes? Are they willing to help with the many problems incurred while starting up a new industry? A politically interested citizenry is likely to insist upon responsible government. What percentage voted at the last local election? What is the system of local government, for example, is it a City Manager form or is the Mayor the principal executive? Are councilmen elected at large or do they represent wards? Does review or annual statements for the past 5 years indicate fiscal balance and sound direction? What bond rate is enjoyed? What is the per capita debt? What pending local or state legislation could affect this proposed facility? Examine the voting record of Congressmen and Senators in State and Federal Legislatures. What committee positions do they fill and what political affiliation have they?

TRANSPORTA ION

Reference was made earlier to the remarkable role that cartage and materials handling costs play in location economics. For example, we can ship paper from Houston to Chicago by barge for the same price per hundred weight that we can truck it from Hamilton to Chicago (290 miles). The time factor is 3-4 weeks versus 10 hours. Similarly, we can move stock from Hamilton to New York City by rail in 36 hours for approximately the same rate as to truck it from Massachusetts into New York City overnight.

When Champion places a warehouse, it must have rail service for its inbound goods and an excellent highway network for its get-away pattern. In most metropolitan areas, we seek a position within the reciprocal switching limits to allow flexibility in carrier designation when influence or interruption to service occurs. Thereby strikes and accidents on the primary route do not necessarily incur increased costs from switching charges. Likewise, we like to locate within the ICC Regulatory free zones for truckers for the obvious latitude of establishing freight rates through direct negotiation."

Next week's series will tell of the necessity of available existing buildings, Zoning and Building Codes, Fire and Police Protection, site considerations and Human Resources sought by industries.

Yoe Band Rates 1st Division At Regional Contest

The Yoe High School band won First Division rating at the Region III, University Interscholastic League, band concert-playing and sight-reading contests, held on the campus of James Connally High School, Waco, Friday, April 30.

The local band under Mr. Francis Cox has won First Division ratings in concert-playing since 1937.

The three concert judges complimented the Yoe band with unanimous First Division ratings. Mr. C. H. Enloe of Wichita Falls, sight-reading judge, said, "A very fine and musical job of reading this very difficult number; a beautiful performance."

Comments from concert judges included, "I always look forward to hearing this fine band; it is so well taught and carefully conducted. I congratulate you on another great band."

"The manner in which you entered the gym and then performed is certainly evidence of the quality of teaching that is being done at your school, and also evidence of the manner in which you are receiving this music education."

THE FAMILY LAWYER

MAGIC IN THE JURY BOX

To bring out the liar in man's nature, few situations can compare with a call to jury duty.

"I can't serve because my wife is sick and I have to take care of the children," said a man who had no wife and no children.

"Sorry, but I'm practically deaf," said a man who had no trouble at all hearing a quiet footstep behind him.

"I just can't afford the loss of pay," said a man whose company paid full wages to any employee serving on a jury.

Such reluctance to serve on juries is common. But it is common only among those who have never tried it. According to a recent survey no less than 94 per cent of those who have served onec want to serve again. Exposed to the experience, people by the thousands change their minds.

What magic in the jury box causes this transformation?

No doubt part of the magic is simply an easing of fears of the unknown. The procedure turns out to be not that complicated, the responsibility not that frightening, the law not that mysterious.

But, besides the nagative magic of relief, there is a positive magic of participation. Each individual juror, like each person in a New England town meeting, plays a direct and vital role in a basic process of government.

It is true that jury duty service can be demanding. Within the jury room, in most cases, the first ballot is not unanimous. As the debate goes on, passions may ignite, voices rise, even tears fall.

But in what worthier, more satisfying cause could that effort be spent? Here is pure public service, untainted by financial reward or political ambition. Here are 12 fellow citizens, brought together in one brief encounter for but a single purpose: to do the work of justice.

There is another plus to jury duty, not always spelled out in the citizenship books. You become an "insider," with all sorts of fascinating information about the workings of the courts.

It is an experience you can talk about afterward, like an operation. And it doesn't hurt.

How To Ruin A Town....

The following article is borrowed from a Missouri publication. We thought we'd pass it along for what it's worth.

The article was entitled "How To Ruin A Town" and listed the following methods:

1. Never attend any meetings. Just sit around and criticize about the way "they" are doing things.

2. Vote against any kind of tax levy—whether the purpose is good or not "They" just want your money.

3. Make fun of the fire and police departments. "They" are just out there for the glory and pay.

4. Don't ever go to the movie, school concert or ball game benefit program, or exhibit. Sit in a half-trance in front of that "idiot box."

5. Knock your city council. This is a must. Every one of them is just on the council to get a little kick-back.

6. Stay out of church. You might go on Easter and Christmas just to prove to yourself that the minister does not know what he's talking about and everyone there is a hypocrite.

7. Buy everything you can out of a discount catalogue or mail order book. These firms are the first to come forth with donations and service to the community.

8. Don't support your town's newspaper. The out-of-town papers are a lot better and contribute much more to the town than the local bugler. But jump on your paper's editor the first time Aunt Hegtha's visit is left out- Forget the other 10 times it was in.

9. Spread any story or rumor that is defamatory or uncomplimentary about the town. Never say nothing nice about nobody. All kids are delinquents, all businessmen are crooks.

10. Above all, always be skeptical and cynical about anything supposed to be good for the community.

Trend Develops In Farm Rec....

Sylvia Porter, syndicated economics writer for numerous daily newspapers, Sunday cited the changeovers occuring in farmland use from agriculture to recreation.

Quoting Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman, she noted that "within the next 20 years, recreation will become the U. S. farmer's Number 1 'money crop.' "

She cited the same group in Putnam County, Mo., cited by FHA officials here in suggesting the possibilities of recreational use of land. We recall that area is planning a $1.5 million facility, including a big earthen dam amidst a wide variety of other planned outdoor activities.

Studies are continuing here on the feasibility of a large recreation center in Milam County.

Miss Porter noted two parallel movements, now quite familiar to agriculture areas: the first that "the small farmer is being relentlessly squeezed out of the economic mainstream of our nation," and the second that "leisure is now one our nation's fastest growing industries."

The U.S. spent $24 billions, or five times the amount on recreation spent in 1940, Miss Porter notes. Gain in population in that period is only about 50 per cent.

"Of 26,000 rural landowners who have built recreation facilities in the past 24 months, more than 2,000 already count recreation as their primary source of income," she writes.

In view of the mountain of facts substantiating this change, it is well that Milam County is viewing such recreation possibilities when as Secretary Freeman says " 'recreation is' a better use for land than idling it, or banking it, or growing more surpluses on it.' "

18 Amendments Likely On Ballot

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN

Texans will go to the polls on November 2 to vote on at least six, and perhaps 18, amendments.

Six proposals for Constitutional amendments already have cleared the Legislature. Ten to 12 others appear to have a good chance of being approved before the end of the session. Senators and representatives introduced 123 proposals for amendments.

Major interest at the Nov. 2 election will be on the proposal to increase to four years the terms of the Governor, Lieutenant Governor and other officials elected statewide.

Voters also will approve or defeat amendments to:

Extend the Veterans Land Program;

Let the Legislature set the salaries of the Lieutenant Governor and Speaker of the House (at whatever level the Legislature chooses) and raise its own per diem expense allowance from $12 a day for 120 days to $20 a day for 140 days;

Allow the state to issue bonds for loans to college students;

Exempt Hermann Hospital in Houston from payment of ad valorem taxes;

Permit the teacher retirement system to invest its money in corporation stocks, as well as in bonds.

A seventh Constitutional amendment to go to the voters is a housekeeping item to clear up uncertainty about when members of the House of Representatives take office. If approved, Legislators will take office on the date the Legislature convenes. This amendment proposal, however, will be on the regular general election ballot in November 1966.

REPEAL POLL TAX, BUT.... - House has passed a constitutional amendment to repeal the poll tax, but it went to the Senate with an amendment requiring annual registration.

Proponents of the poll tax repeal bitterly fought the annual registration requirement. They contend that the states where fraud and political bosses reign are the states with annual registration requirements.

Resolution proposes a statewide vote in November, 1966.

NYC PROJECT DISAPPROVED - A Neighborhood Youth Corps grant of $381,480 to Texas Farmers Union for summer work projects in 33 small school districts of eight South Central Texas counties was disapproved by Gov. John Connally. Grant previously was approved by the U.S. Labor Department.

Governor said that, while he fully agrees with NYC objectives, he "cannot approve of school districts entering into third-party contracts with quasi-political organizations for work-training programs."

Connally has requested Texas Education Agency to assist the school districts in Bexar, Atascosa, Comal, Frio, Medina, Guadalupe, Karnes and Wilson Counties to prepare their own individual applications for work programs.

Texas Farmers Union President Jay Naman expressed disappointment over the governor's action. He said the proposed program for 790 youths would have been a pilot project for rural job training in other areas of the state and nation.

"DRINKERS' RIGHTS URGED Rep. Jake Johnson of San Antonio presented his bill to legalize sale of mixed drinks in Texas before House Liquor Regulations Committee.

Johnson calls his bill a "drinkers' bill of rights." He says it's needed to "bring some sense to the chaotic liquor laws in Texas."

Committee also heard bill to permit families to make up to 200 gallons of their own wine.

Both proposals were sent to subcommittees.

HOUSE LABOR COMMITTEE - A bill to require a minimum wage of $1.25 an hour in Texas was sent to sub-committee.

Committee also sent to sub-panels two other measures:

Bill which would declare new "right to work" policies in event Congress knocks out open-shop provisions of Taft-Hartley law.

Resolution which would transfer to Commissioner of State Bureau of Labor Statistics responsibility for determining prevailing wages required on public works projects.

FARM LAND TAX RELIEF - A constitutional amendment to allow a farmer whose property has become urbanized certain tax relief as long as he ramains a bona fied farmer passed the House after big-city representatives attacked the measure as a "tax dodge for speculators."

Under the bill-sponsored by Reps. Bill Dungan of McKinney, Alonzo Jamison of Denton and Wayne Connally of Floresville, a farmer with land in an urganized area could pay taxes based on a valuation of the land's worth for farming purposes. When he decides to sell the land, he'll pay the difference between that value and the value of the land for development purposes for three years back.

Measure is now in the hands of the Senate.

FREIGHT CARS, TOO - Passenger trains in Texas will be allowed to carry mail or freight cars if Gov. Connally signs a bill which now has passed both the House and Senate. With the exception of the World War II period, mixed trains never have been allowed in Texas.

Bill also provides that brakemen must ride in the car nearest the rear which has a facility for them.

TERMS FIGHT ENDED - Senate summarily put an end to a week-long deadlock with the House over four-year terms for representatives coupled with increasing the Senate from 31 to 39 members.

Without ceremony, Senators killed proposed constitutional amendments for both Senate and House term extensions. They said, in effect, to the House: kill the 39-member Senate proposition if you choose, but there will be no term lengthening for legislators voted this session.

CARR WARNS LEGISLATORS - Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr warned Texas lawmakers they have a firm deadline to complete congressional and legislative redistricting by August 1 and August 2 respectively.

In a memorandum to all legislators, Carr said the federal court may begin the reapportionment job itself after the established deadline.

—OLD PHILOSOPHER—

Philosopher Wants To Know What To Do With A City When It Becomes Unnecessary

Dear editar:

While I never worry about the future, except maybe on the 9th of the month when I begin worrying about what I'm going to do about some bills on the 10th, still a lot of people do and lately I've been reading about their worrying over the future of the farmer in America.

The question to them is, should small farmers and what they call economically incompetent farmers and marginal farmers be allowed to follow the course of nature and go under, or should they be supported and maintained?

Some say, let nature take its course, we've got too many farmers now, they produce too much, every time you turn around somebody is putting up another supermarket to try to sell their stuff. Let em move to town and get a job.

I have the answer to this problem and will give it to you just as soon as I find the answer to Viet Nam.

Meanwhile, there is another problem that ought to be tackled. According to an article I read last night, an economic expert claims that "many cities are nearly broke now."

You mean to say there are "marginal cities," there are "economically inmocpetent" cities. You mean we've got more cities than the country requires? That we ought to let nature take its course and if Baltimore or New York can't make it, let them go under.

I've never thought about this much, but what do you do with a city that's no longer needed? In fact, the harder I think about it the less I conclude.

I have a notion though that a marginal farmer who is nearly broke is going to think a long time before he gets enthusiastic about moving to a city that's in the same shape.

As I see it, the problem now is: this country has too many farms and too many cities.

There are lots of things to think about outside Viet Nam.

TAKE YOUR PROBLEMS TO CHURCH THIS WEEK

Millions Leave Them There!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Psalms	34	1-11
Monday	Isaiah	11	1-9
Tuesday	Amos	3	1-3
Wednesd'y	Luke	24	13-24
Thursday	Luke	24	25-32
Friday	Acts	14	1-7
Saturday	I Thessalonians	5	4-11

TOGETHER

Every experience means more when it is shared. When father, mother and children go to church together they are sharing a beautiful experience. When they sing the songs of the gospel, read the Scripture, listen to the sermon, unite in prayer, they are adding to the joy of being together. When they open their hearts to God and pledge allegiance to Him, family life is strengthened. The "togetherness" reaches out to include fellowship with others.

Young people who grow up in the Church, who have a truly Christian home, are blessed with a tremendous advantage. They have learned to work and live with other people for the glory of God and the advancement of His cause. There is strength in the very thought of uniting in work and worship.

Together—what a difference it makes! Does your family go to Church together?

County Agent's Notes

Chemicals For Profitable Farm

By J. D. Moore

The proper use of chemicals to control grass and weeds in cotton will work successfully and save cotton farmers money if the chemicals are used right, according to Coleman Duncum, chairman of the Milam County Crops committee. Mr. Duncum is a firm believer in the proper use of machinery, chemicals and insecticides for profitable farming.

Coleman plans to make full use of the rotary hoe. The proper use of the rotary hoe will control small grass and weeds at a very early stage of growth. This machine also breaks up the hard "crust' to encourage better growth in seedling cotton.

Mr. Duncum plans to start off his chemical grass and weed control by using about 1 quart of concentrated DSMA in 10 to 12 gallons of water applied laterally. The material is controlled in the same way as lateral oiling. This operation can be started when cotton is 3 to 4 inches tall.

The second application will be applied laterally, same as the first. Mr. Duncum plans to add 1-3 pint of Karnex to the quart of DSMA for the second application. This material will control all grasses and small "careless weeds."

Farmers should make every effort to understand DSMA and its effect on plant growth. This chemical has a tendency to stunt cotton if too much of the chemical gets on the plant. These is less chance of stunting under high moisture conditions.

Then too, the Pure Food and Drug Administration recommends that the use of DSMA be discontinued when cotton starts to bloom. A bulletin, "Suggestions for Weed Control," B-1029, is available at the County Extension office.

BRUCELLOSIS REPORT - There were 13,902 cattle tested as of April 30, according to Dr. Roy Chaney, area testing supervisor in charge of the work. Present testing is being done in the Gause, Milano and Rockdale areas. A meeting will be held in Thorndale Monday night to discuss starting the testing work there.

Local veterinarians continue to test committed herds and will continue this procedure until May 28. Testers in the following areas this week were: Harry Dunnam, Buckholts; Sonny Hild, Gause and Milano; Spencer Yarborough, Maysfield; and Joe Calhoun, Rockdale-Thorndale areas.

Dr. Ray Garrett, state veterinarian is urging cattlemen's cooperation in an all-out effort to cut the per cow cost of testing and he says that individual cooperation is essential to establish this coal and minimize the cost of the program. The date of July 1 has been set as the date to complete the testing program.

Individual cattlemen ready to test can help speed up the program by calling OX 7-2631, Cameron. The lab is located at County Precinct Barn No. 2 on Hwy. 77 across from the Highway Dept. headquarters in Cameron.

PLASTIC HONEYCOMBS

Plastic honeycombs may prove useful in helping control foul-brood and other bee diseases. Plastics can be sterilized after each use by boiling.

SHEEP & LAMB PRICES GOOD

Smaller slaughter supplies, a smaller lamb crop and a decline in the number of sheep and lamb in feedlots are expected to keep sheep and lamb prices for the remainder of 1965 above those of last year. John C. McHaney, Extension economist, reports that prices for wool are not so favorable. Unfavorable factors, he said, include larger world wool supplies, lower mill use and increasing substitution of man-made fibers for wool.

WATER SAFETY

Summer-like temperatures are increasing the numbers of persons participating in water sports and the number of accidents and fatalities. Most of the accidents could be prevented, says the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, if water sportsmen would observe the simple rules of safty.

Nola Knows

By Nola White

Dear Nola - I have small, unsightly, spiderweb-like veins on the upper part of my legs. The milkman told me that if I would expose them to a welding flame it would destrop them. I want very much to try this but I don't know anyone that works in a welding shop. If I went in and asked the poeple at the welding shop if I could expose the upper part of my legs to the flame, would they think I had lost my mind?

Hopeful

Dear Hopeful - If they didn't think you'd lost your mind, you ought to be a litle suspicious of their sanity. Of course, exposing your veins to a welding torch will get rid of them - leg and all. If the veins are truly unsightly, cover them with a cosmetic. Otherwise leave them alone. Furthermore, from now on you'd better wear a skirt when the milkman comes. There's such a thing as being too hopeful!

Dear Nola - I bought myself a car but my husband won't help me keep it up. I am no longer working and can't pay for these things myself. Should I sell the car or is there some way I can make him be responsible for the upkeep? He enjoys having a second car as much as I do. I can't understand his reasoning.

Puzzled

Dear Puzzled - Here in Texas a husband is responsible for his wife's debts, so you can charge the upkeep and he'll have to pay. But you may be creating more problems than you solve. Sit down with him and discuss the advantages of owning two cars. Find out why he refuses to pay. If it's lack of money, perhaps you can find ways to budget and save that will enable you to keep the car. If not, and if you have no small children, perhaps you can go back to your job.

Dear Nola - I married a woman whose ex-husband has come back to town. He has been in and out of jail and I don't think he should call her but he does and she talks to him. If she does this any more I think I will break her head open as I have already done several times. Do you think this is right, or what is?

Tired and Discontented

Dear Tired - Breaking heads is wrong. Calling ex-wives between jail terms is also wrong except in unusual circumstances. If the ex- has a reason to call - to settle problems pertaining to children, for instance - let them talk. It might save you some headaches. If not, you can always get an unlisted phone number just for the asking.
